Canadian Data Storage Company, Synetic, Now Offering FileLock Archive & Compliance Software from Storage Clarity

Offering Simplified Compliance & Preservation for Microsoft Disk-based Archive Storage Systems

Calgary, Alberta, Canada – April 6, 2010 – Storage Clarity, a North American data-storage technology company, announced today that it has partnered with Canadian headquartered storage manufacturer/distributor Synetic, to bundle Grau Data's FILELOCK disk archiving software with their data storage units/products.

As a reseller of FILELOCK, Synetic will be able to offer their customers disk based archive storage solutions; complete with compliance enabling features such as WORM data authenticity, time based file retention and extended file security. Simply stated, FILELOCK converts any new or existing Microsoft NTFS volume into a magnetic WORM NTFS volume. FileLock is completely transparent to application programs and operating system utility programs. In North America, Grau Data's FILELOCK software is exclusively distributed and supported by the Storage Clarity.

Moe Vesal, Technical Manager of Synetic stated: "With FILELOCK, Synetic will now be able to market a family of comprehensive archive/compliance data storage solutions. FILELOCK not only offers secure archiving on Synetic disk and IP based products, it connects transparently to applications in our key vertical markets, including Government, Financial Services, Legal, Healthcare, and Surveillance."

Graham Irving, President of Storage Clarity, is please to be working with Synetic. "Synetic has a diverse set of customers that rely on Synetic expertise and quality storage products to ensure reliable access to their information. Synetic's ability to offer cost-effective storage products along with FILELOCK software will provide excellent value and data preservation to small and medium sized organizations."
